

A long-exposure photograph of a rocky coastline. The foreground is dominated by large, dark, textured rocks on the left side. The sea is very calm and appears as a smooth, light grey surface, with a few dark rocks protruding from it. The sky is overcast and grey. The overall mood is serene and contemplative.

“ DON'T LET NOT KNOWING STOP YOU FROM STARTING ”

JOY MARSDEN

www.joymarsden.com